FAMOUS NICOLÒ MARIONETTES TO PERFORM HERE JAN. 7

Sponsored by the Junior Women's Club of Belle Glade, a musical adventure into the Land of Oz awaits the youngsters when the world-famous Nicolò Marionettes appear on Sat. Jan. 27th at The Belle Glade High School.

Technically, this is one of Nicolò's most ambitious efforts in many years of producing for children's theatre. The Marionettes, specially articulated to provide a truly human flexibility, and stylized to fit the fantastic elements in the story of the Wizard of Oz, give a sparkling performance.

The heroine, Dorothy, and her dog Toto in their travels through the Land of Oz, meet a Lion who can roll his eyes, a Stranow who takes off his head along with his hat, and the Wizard has a scientific control panel capable of producing thunder, lightning or jelly beans, at the twist of a dial, and many others.

The audience will enjoy the sight of a huge mask floating on a bed of green flame, and a full-scale thundering tornado in turbulent action. And many stage effects never before seen on the Marionette stage.

Plan to get your tickets early! Admission: 75c. Performance Time: 10:00 AM at High School — 425 W. Lake Rd. the date is Saturday, Jan. 27th. Contact overall chairman Mrs. Joan Levy in charge for the Junior Women's Club, sponsoring this program. Phone 996-5329 or Mrs. Buck Jones, Publicity Chairman for the event.

Kill this pellitory weed in sugar cane.

Use Atrazine. Here's how:

When you see pellitory weed starting to grow, apply Atrazine 80W herbicide, plus a little surfactant. You'll clean out infestations of this winter annual fast and effectively — without hurting cane.

Atrazine is safe to sugar cane. It will not injure your crop when you apply it as directed on the label. And since it's non-volatile, there's no danger of drift to adjacent, sensitive crops.

Even though Atrazine has proved to control pellitory at any stage of growth, early treatment assures best results. With pellitory under control early, you grow more sugar cane per acre.

That's because Atrazine prevents pellitory from interfering with sugar cane tillering. Also, Atrazine helps make soil moisture and nutrients available for your cane, and not for pellitory weed.

So plan now to grow the maximum tonnage of sugar cane from each acre you plant this season. Just use Atrazine to control pellitory weed this winter.

New Year — 1968

By Mary Todd
Home Extension Agent

Let this New Year be the beginning of a new life in each of us wherein "Old things are passed away." Not the old thoughts which are passed away, but those that remain to nurse and encourage our prejudices. Not the emotions that are filled with kindness; but all anger and bitter feeling. Not the old reverence for the authority of God; but all fears born of our unworthy service apart from Him.

Not the old gracious ministries that bless mankind; but the harsh words, the suspicious looks. Not the old habits that keep us in a straight way, but the new fashions that make us unmindful of those things which hold life together in the unity of good mankind. Not the old friends who grow more beloved each year because their worth is better appreciated; but the new associations made from mercenary motives.

Jr. Woman's Club To Meet Jan. 9

The Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club will conduct the first meeting of the New Year Tuesday, January 9 at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Following the business meeting a program on Fine Arts will be presented.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Donald Tanner, Mrs. Noel Campbell, Mrs. Robert Hooker, Mrs. Wilford Markham.

MATHEWSON - WEEKS VOWS SPOKEN IN CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY

Bill Weeks served his brother as best man. Ushers were Jim Challancin, Mike Day and Douglas S. A. D. Dan Hayes served as candle lighter. Master Mark Woodham, nephew of the bride was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Mathewson chose a two-piece silk and wool of Avocado green with matching headpiece, veil and shoes. She wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. W. W. Weeks, mother of the groom wore an ice blue silk and wool dress with jeweled neckline and matching coat. Her hat, veil and shoes matched the costume and she wore a white orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held in the church annex, decorated with areca palms. Serving were Mrs. Edward F. Allen, Mrs. Frank C. Anderson, Mrs. James Fraser, Mrs. Linda Rubin, Miss Vicki Challancin and Mrs. Paul Kirckman. Mrs. Ronald Hudspeth of West Palm Beach kept the guests' book. The bride's table was overlaid with an embroidered white organza cloth. The four-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with doves and wedding bells and topped with miniature bride and groom. The silver punch bowl was encircled with similar and white pom-poms. Centered on the table was a beautiful cherub pedestal arrangement of white, pink, orange, miniature white and pink variegated carnations and green and white Holly.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Franklin C. Wolf of Los Angeles, Calif., aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. William Prather and Bill Jr., uncle, aunt and cousin of the groom, Kimmie and Miss Lynn Prather of Washington, D.C., cousin of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hudspeth of West Palm Beach, Mike Murphy from Daytona Beach, room mate of Steve's and former roommate John Reynolds from Ft. Myers; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Linden, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Paul Kirckman, Boca Raton; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Murphy, Mrs. Houston Martin, Mrs. Fred Straut and son Timothy, Mr. and Mrs. George McMillan all of West Palm Beach; Mrs. Vance Greer and children, Gwen, Gary and Monica, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rittle all of Ft. Lauderdale and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roberts, Tampa.

For traveling, the bride wore a light blue suit with fitted jacket and a white rosebud corsage.

After a wedding trip to Cape Coral, the couple left Sunday night to take up their new residence in Tallahassee.

MR. AND MRS. JEFFREY STEVEN WEEKS

Mrs. Robert Roadman was organist. Soloists, Mrs. O'Neal Walker of South Bay sang, "Walk Hand in Hand With Me" and Mrs. Gordon Weinberger of Clewiston sang, "The Greatest of These is Love." Both sang "Oh, Perfect Love" as the prayer song.

The bride was radiant in a floor-length gown of dulcette satin. Designed with a high neckline, the bodice was re-embroidered with Alencon lace extending to the waistline of her A-line skirt. The long, flowing skirt was fastened with satin covered buttons as was the back of the bodice. The chapel train bordered in lace, and caught up with a bow, fell from the shoulder line. Her silk illusion shoulder length veil was attached to a matching double bow, accented with an Alencon lace rosette and petals trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of Jack Frost white sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Weeks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Weeks, 732 W. Canal St., South, Belle Glade. He graduated from Belle Glade High School and is attending Florida State University where he is majoring in Broadcasting.

Areca palms decorated the chancel, forming a background for the altar arrangement, a large sunburst of white gladioli, giant white mums and white pom-poms. Arched candelabra centered the back of the altar and pyramid candelabra at either side were intertwined with similar. White satin bows marked the family pews.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

The only way to have a friend is to be one.—Emerson

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Time For Austerity

As the year draws to a close, Americans watch with dismay as raids are made on the nation's gold supply by gold speculators in Europe, including the French Republic which was once a staunch friend of the United States. Attempts are being made to undermine the value of the dollar and, thereby, to jeopardize the entire U.S. economy.

This is a grave danger which requires across-the-board effort by the federal government. On the foreign front, the nation needs to stop the flow of gold to France. U.S. Sen. Vance Harkins (D-Ia.) has proposed a legislative ban on further shipments of gold to the French until they resume payments on their World War I debt to the United States. This debt exceeds $6 billion. It is high time that the Johnson administration publicly remind the French that they owe this sum to the American people. Of course, it is only a part of the much vaster sum that the United States has devoted to the protection or assistance of France in this century.

Halting the gold flow by law is only one part of the remedial effort that must be undertaken promptly to protect the dollar. Action at home also is needed. What sort of action is required has been succinctly stated by Prof. James C. Doolley of the Department of Finance at the University of Texas.

Prof. Doolley has stated that the U.S. should take these steps: (1) Balance the federal budget by cutting non-defense spending; (2) balance our international payments by eliminating all foreign economic aid; and (3) take steps to stop the wage-price spiral.

Unfortunately, the Johnson administration apparently is unwilling to take steps of this sort. Instead of cutting non-defense spending, the administration continues to press for new or expanded Great Society programs. The administration bitterly resisted reductions in the foreign aid program this year.

Mr. Johnson also is unwilling to incur the enmity of the union bosses by suggesting that wages as well as prices should be restrained. Settlements in the automotive industry, imposed by the union monopoly, virtually guarantee an additional round of inflation in that key industrial sector. When a manufacturer wants to go up on his prices, he faces heavy administration pressure. But the union bosses are not reprimanded by the White House when they upset the wage structure in the country. That's the political pattern of the Great Society.

Holding the line on public spending of a non-defense character and restraining industrial inflation constitute vital

New Year helping the Great Society find 791 needed employees. He reported he had saw where the General Accounting Office had reported one Job Corps Center in California had 1,869 people enrolled and didn't have but 1,078 Government employees handling the job. Ed allowed as how they got to have 791 more Government workers to get it up to one employee per one student and it was his patriotic duty to help find them.

Isaac Confodder, that usual didn't have much to say at the sessions, told the fellers he was too busy laying plans for that income tax report farmers has got to mail in before February 15 to worry about anything else. He said he had already got one line filled out. Where it asks for "Occupation," Isaac said he had put "Just Resting."

Ed claimed this would be a great mistake, that the first thing them Government fella would do when they got the report would be to put Isaac to work. Ed said a feller that was "just resting" was supposed to be on welfare and relief.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Poinsettias Can Be Saved For Next Christmas

Don't toss out that pot of holiday poinsettia when the last leaf drops and the final red bract drops atop a spaghetti-like stem.

Like a red-headed stepchild without make-up—the plant can be revitalized into a marvel of beauty with proper treatment.

The plant will show brilliant color next winter if you follow these tips from Dr. E. W. McElwee, Agricultural Extension Service horticulturist.

First, store the pot, plant and all, in an out-of-the-way place and forget about it until about the middle of March.

This careless treatment is intended to hibernate the plant during the frosty days while the shriveling top feeds the sleeping roots.

Don't water the dormant plant. But so it won't dry out too much, lay the potted plant on its side in a cool dry place. Under the back porch is an ideal place. If you live on a concrete slab, try storing the sleeping plant in that shady corner of the carport.

When spring comes, tenderly awake the plant by sloughing off the dead top and by placing the roots in a new bed of rich soil. You can grow the new plant in last season's pot, but the poinsettia will be happier if you set it in the soil where it can fix its roots better than in the confines of a pot.

If you did not get a gift of poinsettias for Christmas, it is easy to establish plantings of the holiday ornament by purchasing stock from a local nurseryman. However, some green thumb operators feel that they have better luck if they sneak hardwood cuttings from a neighbor's yard following the flowering season.

Poinsettias will grow on a wide range of soils, including sand, muck, marl, rocky soil and clay. In spite of the wide adaptability, the plants will present you a better show of color if you take proper care of them.

Fertilizer application is important. Apply about 1½ pounds of a good garden fertilizer per 100 square feet of plant space in early spring, again in June and perhaps in mid-summer if there are heavy rains.

Pruning is the secret of a canopy of color next Christmas.

As each sprout reaches 12 inches long, pinch it back to six inches. Continue this cruel treatment to all sprouts until the middle of September. Then stop to give the plant tips a chance to set their bearings of color petals.

Poinsettias show their color according to day length and temperature. A plant, near a lighted window or a street light often refuses to color up like a neighboring plant in a nearby darker corner. The best flower development is when the night temperatures range from 60 to 62 degrees.

The resultant increase in sales makes large-scale advertising cheaper for the volume retailer. It finally brings about lower prices for the consumer who shops from competitive advertising.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The small business and the individual may get more than adequate results from a very small newspaper advertisement. The consumer looking for a specific utility or service is likely to scan every ad related to his needs.

Then, does the large retailer find it profitable to use full-page spreads? Does it make sense to increase the volume of advertising and the size of individual ads faster than a retail business grows? Yes is the answer to both questions.

As a business grows in size, its competitive situation changes. Expansion depends on attracting new customers and operating on a smaller margin of profit. It means facing more aggressive competitors. A broader advertising program becomes necessary.

The large newspaper advertisement provides advantages the individual may get more than adequate results from a very small newspaper advertisement. The consumer looking for a specific utility or service is likely to scan every ad related to his needs.

Then, does the large retailer find it profitable to use full-page spreads? Does it make sense to increase the volume of advertising and the size of individual ads faster than a retail business grows? Yes is the answer to both questions.

As a business grows in size, its competitive situation changes. Expansion depends on attracting new customers and operating on a smaller margin of profit. It means facing more aggressive competitors. A broader advertising program becomes necessary.

The "If Only" Complex

For those of you who don't know, the "if only" complex is a disease that affects millions percent of the world's population. Most everyone gets it at a very early age and it gets worse and worse as the years go by. The illness can be cured by the individual himself through self-analysis.

Of course many of us don't even realize that we are afflicted until we're too old to do anything about it. The first symptoms appear early in life, in fact it is hard to remember the first time we said, "if only." I had done that differently or "if only" I had treated him better.

As the years pass we keep saying it more and more, but nothing changes. In fact things get worse and we use the phrase as a crutch. What can you do to cure yourself of the bad habit of living in the past. Simple. Start thinking of what you're going to do instead of what you should have done.

Every time you feel yourself thinking "if only," mentally change that phrase to "the next time." "The next time" I'm not going to do or act this way. With this change you'll feel better, have a better attitude and won't waste your life living in the past. There is nothing that you do today that you'll be able to change tomorrow, in fact there is no guarantee you'll be here tomorrow. So today do your best to live your life in the present and the future, for the past is gone forever.

And what's more it's only been driven defensibly."

Tremendous strides have been made in getting eyesores like the above removed from Belle Glade streets. Thanks to the efforts of our city government and police department perhaps 1968 will see an end to this most pressing problem.

Garden Indoors
End of summer blues can be partially cured by bringing a portion of the garden back into the house. Some of the day-dreams that have been plugged in planter boxes or garden soil may have outgrown their old homes. If plants do need re-potting, use clay pots as large and soak new clay pots in water for at least an hour before using.

THE FISHING REPORT

The specks are biting! Almost all fishermen that went after specks this past week caught some. However, the fishermen that went after bass were a little disappointed. With the approach of the full moon, fishing should begin to get real good for bass and specks.

Some of the catches reported at Slim's Fish Camp this week are as follows:

Monday, Dec. 26—Charlie Nix—7 1/2 lb. bass.
Tuesday, December 27—Tom Foster—2 bass, One 5 lbs., one 6 lbs.—Joe Gilliam—6 bass, one 6 1/2 lbs.
Wednesday, Dec. 28—Avery Kerschner and party, 5 bass.
Thursday, Dec. 29—Pellon Morris, 35 specks.
Friday, Dec. 30—Cliff Catlin and wife, 73 specks. On Saturday, they caught 35 using No Alibi jigs.

—Slim's Fish Camp

The fish are in the spawning beds now and fishing should continue good on the lake.

On Tuesday, D. A. Davis and Charles Curl from Boca Raton caught 15 bass.

Tom La Flam came in with 46 specks on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wood from West Palm Beach brought in a nice string of 55 specks on Saturday.

Charles Pritchard and Jack Clyde from Boca Raton caught their limit of specks on Tuesday. Elmer Dunaway and son of Belle Glade had 12 bass on Sunday weighing up to 6 1/2 lbs.
